SpeakerCraft is confident in our weather resistant build quality & reliability. Every speaker we provide is covered by a lifetime warranty. We invite nature's harshest elements to challenge us.

1

Making Music

Music has an incredible power to influence our moods, enhance our environment and enrich our lives. Creating music with precision and fidelity is something we at SpeakerCraft have prided ourselves in for over three decades. The careful design and manufacture of loudspeakers has been our hallmark both under our own brand and as a third party supplier to some of the most famous names in the industry. Our passion for faithfully recreating the musical experience is the driving force behind our worldwide success.

2

Technical Agility

Responding to the demands of discriminating listeners, we are constantly advancing the art of sound. Be it through new manufacturing techniques, sophisticated materials, complex designs or unique applications of technology, we are always at the forefront of innovation. The speakers you see here are further examples of this effort. Through scientific evaluation of the environments they will be required to fill with sound, we have determined the driver compliment, established the enclosure requirements and fine-tuned the crossover networks to deliver an impressive level of audio performance.

3

Elemental Exposure

Knowing that the marine environment can be quite unforgiving we have designed our loudspeakers to perform under harsh conditions. From the water resistant drivers to the stainless steel hardware, from the galvanized and powder-coated enclosures to the weather resistant adhesives and bonding agents, from the UV resistant ABS baffles to the powder-coated aluminum grilles, these speakers are built to last. You can be confident when installing any SpeakerCraft loudspeaker that it will provide the sound you expect for years to come.

POWER

The End Effect

All of this technology is of no value unless it creates the desired result. As you listen to these speakers you will appreciate all the effort that has gone into their creation. Listen to the dynamic response and the subtle nuances that make music come to life. Whether you enjoy the sweet strains of a classical performance or the driving rhythm of the latest dance mix, SpeakerCraft will deliver.

Your life is made up of a series of experiences. Music makes these experiences more visceral and increases the enjoyment of everyone who shares in the occasion. At SpeakerCraft we live and breath music. As you imagine your life on the water, imagine it filled with the music our speakers provide. Once you have enjoyed how that music enhances your life, you will never want to be without it.
